

Fehad Nabi Khan - CV

Fehad Nabi Khan is a PhD student at Politecnico di Torino, specializing in the development of oxygen evolution reaction (OER) catalysts. Their research focuses on enhancing OER kinetics through the use of ionic liquids, combining theoretical insights, density functional theory (DFT), and experimental techniques. Their interdisciplinary approach aims to advance sustainable energy conversion technologies.