

Elisabetta Maria Veca - CV

I'm a chemical engineer, I've been working for ENEA since 2011, and during this time I worked on several European and National research projects. The activities are focused on thermal and physical characterization of molten salts, study of material for thermal energy storage, such as concrete, and experimental characterization of corrosion degradation on stainless steels for CSP application with molten nitrate salts.